Gmail+ Method for Creating Student Accounts

Gmail+ Method for Student Accounts

- The problem that many teachers face when creating student user accounts for web applications is that most applications require a valid e-mail address to create the account.
- This method solves this problem and also leads to the teacher having more regulatory control over his/her students' accounts

Step 1 – Create Teacher Gmail Account

Create a legitimate Gmail account at www.mail.google.com (e.g. username@gmail.com)

Verify your account

You're almost done! We just need to verify your account before we can create it.

Account verification helps with:

- Preventing spam: we try to verify that real people, not robots, are creating accounts.
- Recovering account access: we will use your information to verify your identity if you ever lose access to your account.
- . Communication: we will use your information to notify you of important changes to your account (for example, password changes from a new location).

Unless you explicitly tell us to do so, your phone number will never be sold or shared with other companies, and we will not use it for any purpose other than during this verification step and for password recovery and account security issues. In other words, you don't have to worry about getting spam calls or text messages from us, ever.

Step 2 – Setting Up Student Accounts

You now use your Gmail account to "trick" web applications that require an e-mail address to create accounts

The way it works is that you add a "+" and a student name/alias after the Gmail user name (e.g. yourusername+thomas@gmail.com, your username+mary@gmail.com)

The web applications will recognise those addresses as real e-mail address, but students never see an inbox

Step 2 – Setting Up Student Accounts

Any e-mails (i.e. registration confirmations, etc.) that are sent to the yourusername+studentname@gmail.com will be delivered to the Gmail inbox that only you can access.

Ensure to check this address regularly to keep abreast of what your pupils are doing on their Web Based Tools accounts
