Replacing a mishmash collection of solutions »
Landor Associates and the B to D Group took eight months to evaluate dozens of collaboration solutions, and only PBworks could deliver an answer to all of their needs with compelling ease of use.
" PBworks is almost ubiquitous in the day-to-day process around knowledge sharing — it is just there and simply works."
— Spencer Mains, Chief Technology Officer, B to D Group

Step 2

The next screen asks you to “Choose a plan that fits”

PBWorks has several options for educational wikis. The features vary (as does the cost), but the basic wiki features will meet your needs

Click on “Select” for the Basic Plan

Step 3

You will be asked to sign in with some basic information

You may want to use a non-school email account (you can set the wiki to send you emails when the wiki is updated)

I suggest you choose an address that is easy for you and your students to remember. For example: mrleacy.pbworks.com

Click “Next” once you have completed adding your information

Step 4

Now it's time to choose who will have access to edit and view your wiki

You can change these settings later, but you may want to keep your wiki private until you are ready to share it with your students

After you have chosen your preference, click "Take me to my workspace"
